

Private chef & drop off service

The chefs at Bread & Butter catering can add the restaurant touch to your party in the privacy of your own home or pre-prepared and efficiently packed with simple step by steps so you can deliver restaurant standard meals without all the fuss.

If you still feel this is a bridge too far and require the food and service elements of your party to be taken care of, our chefs and events managers will guide the whole event from menu planning, through to service ensuring you achieve your desired outcome no matter how big or small the requests.

We can cater for most styles of dining in your home, upon deciding the food and drink menus, we would pay you a visit to work out the logistics of the space to enabling us to ensure your party is seamless from start to finish

We like to tailor our menus for each client so do get in touch if you have something in mind, please see below an example of recent home drop off menu that we created for a client.
